SYNOPSIS

IC 8-1-2-100 provides that utilities service boards fix the policy of control over municipal utilities, including the establishment of rates and other regulations, with the approval of the municipal council. In May, 1979, an ordinance establishing general rules, water rates, and water service charges for the city water utility was adopted, but because the water service charges will be revised annually to reflect inflationary increases and because they involve more internal affairs than do water rates, the Utilities Director has suggested that the Council not enact a new ordinance each time these rates are increased. This ordinance, an alternative to Ordinance 80-11, would repeal the sections in the Code on water service charges to reflect this change and would revise a section on late payment charges as suggested by the Public Service Commission.
