

Come Join Us in a Workshop!

October 9th

Bloomington's downtown Certified Technology Park will be a sought-after model of modern, sustainable urban redevelopment that nurtures creativity and entrepreneurship among its citizens and workforce, helps brand Bloomington as a lively tech sector hub, attracts private investment, employment and visitors, and provides welcoming living options for Bloomingtonians.

From 1:00 PM to 7:30 PM

Please join us at 638 N. Rogers Street,
the former site of
IU Printing Services
Building

Two Times to Participate!

Option # 1

1:00 PM - 1:30 PM - Sign-in/registration and visit orientation exhibits for the projects

1:30 PM - 1:50 PM: Brief presentation of the project

1:50 PM - 3:30 PM: Plan element stations - participants are encouraged to view the components of the plan in progress and provide feedback through post-it notes, comments cards, dots (instructions will be provided during the presentation)

3:00 PM: Guided Site Walk (Optional)

Option # 2

4:30 PM - 5:00 PM: Sign-in/registration and visit orientation exhibits for the projects

5:00 - 5:20 PM: Brief presentation of the project

5:20 PM - 7:00 PM: Plan element stations - participants are encouraged to view the components of the plan in progress and provide feedback through post-it notes, comments cards, dots (instructions will be provided during the presentation)

7:00 PM: Guided Site Walk (Optional)

For additional information please contact Danise Alano-Martin, Economic & Sustainable Development Director, City of Bloomington at alano@bloomington.in.gov