SYNOPSIS

This ordinance makes four changes to Title 10 of the Bloomington Municipal Code regarding "Wastewater." First, it adds definitions for the terms "base unit" and "impervious area" for use in computing storm water utility user charges for fire line connection customers. Second, it changes the basis for the computation of those charges from fire line size to impervious area. Third, it limits the increase in monthly charges that may result due to this rate structure change. And fourth, it authorizes a credit to customers who paid more per month under the previous rate structure than they will under the new rate structure.
