RESOLUTION 82-12
TO EXPRESS SUPPORT FOR AN IMMEDIATE HALT TO THE NUCLEAR ARMS RACE.

Clerk Williams read the resolution by title only.

Dilcher moved and Service seconded a motion to adopt Resolution 82-12. Dilcher read the legislative synopsis.

Dilcher said that this resolution was for bilateral, mutually verifiable disarmament. While there may be some reluctance to vote on what seems to be a national issue, there is enough evidence to support the fact that each side has enough nuclear power to devastate each other. The federal government asked our community to present a civil defense plan and the conclusion of the committee was that no plan was realistic, in short there was no defense. Thus the response is many concerned citizens seeking many avenues of expression and this is the conclusion that this committee has arrived at.

Olcott said that he still has problems with telling Washington what to do without sufficient information.

Olcott moved and Hogan seconded a motion to dismiss the resolution.

The motion was defeated by a vote of Ayes:4, Nays; 5 (Towell, Allison, Murphy, Dilcher, Service).

Hogan objected to the discussion of this resolution of a topic that will have zero impact on the issue. If the council wants to have a round table discussion, fine, but it was out of place to spend two hours discussing the resolution and be here until midnight with budget hearings.

Service disagreed, saying that it was the council's responsibility. Potholes and stray animals seem irrelevant if we are going to be annihilated. She continued by saying that the council is not really acting alone but that nationwide councils and town meetings, churches and citizen groups are becoming involved.

David Pace said that there is a tradition of local government taking a position and that there is no provision for citizen input if you cannot speak as a council.

Milton Fisk, a member of the Bloomington Peace Coalition, said that citizens should encourage their representatives to speak regarding national issues.

Dr. Hugh Ramsey, former councilmember, spoke against the resolution and cited several examples and experiences against the philosophy of nuclear freeze. He concluded by saying that it was 'better to disagree than for both to be wrong'.

Howard Canada said that nuclear weapons were immoral and that asking for a better way was the only thing to do.

David Goodman presented a list of signatures from the third district supporting the freeze petition. He presented them to councilmember John Porter.

Scott Sanders expressed similar concerns, saying that the council had a responsibility to transmit the feelings of the populace.

Bill Stnadt (sp) a graduate student and veteran of Vietnam supported the nuclear freeze resolution..

Hogan said that this resolution addresses only the United States and not the USSR and does not take into consideration all of the other countries that possess nuclear weapons.

Sam Loescher said that the nuclear build-up must stop if we are to survive economically.

Hulda Clark expressed concern for pregnant women and the effects of nuclear radiation on the unborn child.

John Moore suggested a No vote because the resolution falls short of what is really needed.

Mary Lous Miler expressed similar citizen concern.

Jim Simmons, a Vietnam veteran spoke against nuclear war and war in general saying his credentials seemed to indicate that he had some experience with the issue and he supported the nuclear arms freeze.

The motion received a vote of Ayes: 6, Nays: 3 (Olcott, Hogan, Morrison).

The following ordinances were then introduced and read for first reading by title only after motions made by Olcott and seconded by Morrison.
