As Council Members know, we are in the midst of a global pandemic caused by a novel coronavirus. This virus, specifically COVID-19, is extremely infectious, and it has spread within a matter of months to nearly every country in the world. In an attempt to mitigate how far and how fast COVID-19 races across the U.S., the President, many Governors, and many local government officials have declared emergencies and issued orders designed to reduce COVID-19 infections within their jurisdictions.

On March 16, 2020, Governor Holcomb issued Executive Order 20-04, which, among other things, ordered food service establishments to close to in-person patrons, and on March 23, 2020, the Governor issued Executive Order 20-08, which similarly ordered all non-essential businesses to close as well. Moreover, individual citizens were ordered to stay at home except for certain limited reasons deemed to be essential for human health. As of today, the stay-at-home order is in place effectively until April 7th.

The closures mandated by the Governor have created and will continue to create severe financial hardships for affected businesses and their employees in the City of Bloomington. Consequently, on March 25, 2020, the Common Council requested that the Food and Beverage Tax Advisory Commission (“Commission”) established under Indiana Code § 6-9-41-16 recommend the expenditure of food and beverage tax funds in an amount up to $2,000,000 for loans and/or grants to support local food and beverage and tourism-related enterprises and their employees that have suffered financial hardship due to the public health emergency. On March 27, 2020, the Commission met in public session and voted to make this recommendation. Their signed recommendation is attached as Exhibit A to this memo.

The use of food and beverage tax proceeds to sustain tourism-related businesses and their employees during this crisis is appropriate and necessary. As you know, the City and Monroe County are actively working on a joint project to finance a significant expansion to the existing Monroe County Convention Center as well as improvements to the existing center, and the plan of financing calls for the use of the City’s food and beverage tax proceeds (through bonding) to pay for these improvements. These shuttered local enterprises are integrally connected with and crucial to the success of the Convention Center project. Many of the businesses that have been forced to close generate the very food and beverage taxes that will be needed to finance the Convention Center project, and if they fail, the resulting loss of food and beverage tax revenues could and likely would severely impair the ability of the City and the County to finance the project.

In addition, the targeted businesses provide goods and services that are critical to serving the visitors to the community who would be attending conventions, and indeed they are a large part of what draws convention planners and attendees to Bloomington in the first place. If these businesses do not survive, the community will lack capacity to serve the visitors that the expanded convention center is designed to attract, which in turn will result in a loss of convention business opportunities and put the entire project in jeopardy.

Providing short term financial assistance to these businesses is strategy that the City may and should pursue to increase the likelihood that these businesses will survive. Under Indiana Code § 6-9-41-15, “money deposited in the city food and beverage tax receipts fund may be used only to finance, construct, operate, or maintain a convention center, a conference center, or related tourism or economic development projects.” Thus, one of the permitted purposes of the City’s share of the food and beverage tax revenues is to “finance…a convention center….,” and other purposes include operating and maintaining the Convention Center. Given the extraordinary circumstances surrounding the COVID-19 crisis, providing financial assistance to local businesses is a critical and necessary component of the City’s ability to finance its share of the Convention Center project and to ensure its success after the expansion.

We therefore request that the Council adopt Appropriations Ordinance 20-01 in support of our local food and beverage and tourism industries.

Overview & Summary Recommendation

This memo provides initial guidelines for economic stabilization and recovery. The brief provides Mayor John Hamilton and City leadership with policy recommendations for economic stabilization and revitalization following the COVID-19 crisis, especially pertaining to City-originated taxpayer funded support. It will continue to be updated.

Unemployment has risen as we see an economic domino effect. National unemployment has skyrocketed. Initial Monroe County unemployment filings leapt to approximately 1,000 claims in the week ending March 21. The leisure and hospitality industries were hardest hit early in the crisis, affecting restaurants, hotels, and their suppliers. Anecdotal evidence points to an impact on other services facing closings and cancellations, everything from retail to small manufacturing and HVAC services. A domino effect is expected as businesses become unable to pay suppliers, landlords, and mortgages.

Wraparound support is also recommended for employers and individuals. The City of Bloomington can join with partners across sectors to provide wraparound funding and non-funding support for employers and individuals, aligned with developing state and federal initiatives.

The City can support and develop non-funding aid for employers by:
- Promoting access to centralized information resources and technical assistance through entities like the Indiana Small Business Development Center, so businesses know how to engage with these resources.
- Hosting procurement summits with partners to enable businesses throughout the region to learn how to sell products and services to government entities and major industries.
- Identifying mechanisms for short-term regulatory relief, such as extending license renewals.

Businesses face immediate working capital needs. Bloomington's business community reports its most critical need is immediate working capital in amounts under $50,000 within 1–2 months. This aligns with gaps in existing and expected capital from SBA Disaster Loans, government aid, traditional, and alternative financing sources.

City of Bloomington funding support should fill gaps. We recommend creating small-dollar, rapidly-deployed capital with short-term deferral, no interest, and simple eligibility criteria. This may be combined with funding to leverage existing capital resources at lower interest rates to expand capacity in the medium-term.

The City can leverage the following public funds:
Their use should be overseen by an administrative body with public and private representation:
- Food & Beverage Tax funds: Leverage up to $2 million in F&B Tax funds, if approved, or a similar amount from an alternate source, such as CRED.
- BUEA Funds: Leverage $500,000 from BUEA with a majority split between arts grant funding and micro loans for businesses excluded from F&B Tax fund coverage.
Engage partners across the county and region to roll out and adapt this support. Ongoing collaboration is key to reaching employers while adapting resources amidst global changes. The duration and reach of this crisis is unknown, so these efforts must be sustainable.
