The Commission on Aging serves as a catalyst for improving public awareness of the senior and aging community.
Mission
The Commission on Aging advocates for and advises the Mayor, City Council and others about the status and needs of older adults in Bloomington and serves as a catalyst for improving public awareness of issues facing the senior and aging community. We work in collaboration with diverse community members and organizations to build bridges, open dialogue, celebrate accomplishments, encourage programming, and explore issues and concerns of older adults. Our intent is to promote solutions to the challenges of an increasing older adult population and celebrate the contributions of our older citizens.

The members of the Commission on Aging are Georgia Schaich, Lauren Cowan, Mary Boutain, James McLary, Julie Hill, Sophia Hauserman, Susan Snider Salmon, Jack Kahn, Vice Chair and Alice Oestreitch, Chair

Activities 2014
2014 was a busy year for the Commission on Aging. We
- Sponsored the fourth annual Creative Aging Festival with 41 events throughout Bloomington during the month of May.
- Participated in the Active Living Workshop and remain involved in subsequent work plans.
- Presented informative materials at the Farmer’s Market throughout the summer.
- Initiated Emergency Planning with the Green Acres Neighborhood Association.
- Conducted a number of public events and informational campaign on Elder Abuse Awareness.

Future Recommendations:
The Commission on Aging hopes to continue to lead and engage city officials and business leaders to build a community for a lifetime—for all ages and abilities. We believe wholeheartedly that when a city is truly accessible and supportive of its older citizens there are lasting benefits for all.

Initiatives of the Commission on Aging
The demographic landscape of the United States—and the world—is shifting dramatically. By 2060, the number of people 65 and older in the U.S. will have more than doubled, from 43.1 million to 92 million. This “age wave” is the beginning of the new normal: more than a quarter of children born today will reach their 100th birthday. How we plan for and embrace this reality is a primary focus of the Commission.

The Commission focuses its work around the following initiatives:

Creative Aging Initiative - Coordinate and assist the development of community events and collaborations that enrich the lives of older adults with an emphasis on encouraging best practice programming and workforce development opportunities.

Current project:

- Creative Aging Festival- (Julie Hill, Alice Oestreich, Georgia Schaich, Lauren Cowan, Sophia Hauserman) A celebration to promote wellness, lifelong learning, and creative engagement for older adults and the fostering of inter-generational relationships during the month of May, which is National Older Americans’ Month. A public face to the Commission on Aging, the Creative Aging Festival aims to cultivate a more positive perception of aging by focusing on the strengths, potential and achievements of our older citizens through a multitude of events and activities organized by various community agencies and groups.

A. Building a Community for a Lifetime-Advocating for policy change, systems development and programming that makes Bloomington a great city for all ages and abilities. We are building a community that values and supports people as they age.

Current projects include:

- Advocating for the establishment of a community center for older adults: Advancing a community discussion of the benefits of a community center for older adults and educating potential commercial partners of those benefits. Engaging older adults in the discussion and advocacy of such a center.

- Emergency/Disaster Supports for seniors: Work with Emergency Preparedness planners to include older adults in county-wide emergency preparedness planning. Use public forums such as Senior Expo and Senior Day at the Monroe County Fair to educate and encourage older adults to prepare for natural disasters and other emergencies. Work with neighborhood associations to enhance the safety of older adults in their neighborhoods.

- Sharing of Information: Inform and advise City Council members, City staff and the general public of proposed policy changes, aging issues and concerns. Collaborate with other City commissions and coalitions to further advance initiatives that support elements of a Community for a Lifetime such as affordable housing, addressing accessibility in the built environment and home construction and rehab, and accessible transportation options.
Creative Aging Initiative:

The Creative Aging Festival

The Commission on Aging is charged with celebrating the contributions of older adults and enhancing intergenerational understanding in our community. The fourth annual Creative Aging Festival took place in the month of May. 41 events were held throughout Monroe County in a variety of venues.

The goals of the Bloomington Commission on Aging in sponsoring the festival are threefold:

- To identify and promote best practice efforts that create opportunities for older persons to explore, discover, and tap their potential;
- To increase older adult participation in creative and civic activities; and
- To enhance the quality of life for the citizens of our community.

Currently the fastest-growing segment of the U.S. population is people 85 and older. This increase in the “oldest old” (who are most likely to be living with memory loss and neuro-cognitive disorders), coupled with the rising number of older adults with chronic disease, has led to the need for expanded healthcare and aging services.

Given the challenge that this demographic shift presents, the arts have emerged as a promising intervention to improve quality of life, increase individual health and wellbeing, and build community connectivity for older adults. Recognizing this, the Bloomington Commission on Aging, coordinates an annual Creative Aging Festival each May.

The Creative Aging Festival’s month-long series of events, activities, performances, and expos are designed to celebrate creativity in later life; promote intergenerational understanding through dialogue, sharing traditions and storytelling, and increase awareness about the value of creative engagement to adult health and well-being.

Originally conceived as a health and wellness initiative for the commission, the festival has become the signature event for the Bloomington Commission on Aging. There has been an increase in the number of hosted events each consecutive year.
In its fourth year, the 2014 Festival hosted 41 events, organized by 29 different organizations, ranging from the IU Art Museum, to the Bloomington Cooking School, to the Campus Children’s Center. The planning committee is made up 14 individuals and 10 organizations and businesses are represented. The following individuals/organizations were on the 2014 Creative Aging Festival Planning Committee:

Julie Hill (Chair)
Alice Oestreich (Secretary)
Sue Owens (Staff)

Area 10 Agency on Aging
Creative Aging Festival plans 2015: Planning for 2015 has already begun. Two annual events in particular, Krista Detor’s Time Travels and a major educational symposium, have surfaced as key pillars of the month-long festival. Time Travels has become a sensation, selling out performances for the past two years. Proceeds from the Time Travels event support Area 10 Agency on Aging Endwright Center, while proceeds from the symposium will become seed money for subsequent festivals.

Festival chair, Julie Hill, was invited to participate in a Leadership Exchange Forum hosted by the National Centers Creative Aging in Washington D.C. in June. There, she learned the Bloomington’s Creative Aging Festival was the first of its kind in the United States. The Commission has been an organizational member of the NCCA since 2012. The uniqueness of this event is a strength on which we hope to capitalize.

The festival committee seeks to engage the Bloomington Arts Commission, the Arts Alliance of Great Bloomington and the Bloomington Lifelong Learning Coalition in order to address the sustainability of the festival. Members of the planning committee attend meetings of these organizations regularly to keep them informed of festival activities. In August the Bloomington Arts Commission provided a consultation through the Arts Commission’s creative assistance initiative to the Commission on Aging. The Commission on Aging was encouraged to think about how to expand the concept of creative aging, which we have done for 2015. The 2015 symposium will be about “RE-visioning people, places, and things”.

We believe the Creative Aging Festival has benefits beyond the celebration of the contributions of the older adults of Bloomington. Developing a well-recognized annual event that will attract boomers from throughout the Midwest has the potential to:

- support Bloomington’s economic development strategy by building audience for arts organizations;
- support professional development across disciplines and occupations in creative aging that produces an innovative and robust workforce of artist, educators and advocates;
- increase touch point opportunities for the delivery of crucial services to an underserved population of our community; and
- provide fund raising opportunities for arts organizations and businesses that provide services to the elder population.
Building a Community for a Lifetime

Active Living Workshop

The Commission on Aging partnered with members of the Active Living Coalition to sponsor an Active Living Workshop. The Indiana State Department of Health and Health by Design presented a workshop tailored to the needs of Bloomington and focused the workshop in the Broadview neighborhood. Community leaders and citizens learned about active living choices, policies and best practices. Focus groups brainstormed ideas on topic areas and voted on priorities to address in the Bloomington community. A working group made up of members of the Active Living Coalition, the Commission on Aging and Phil Stafford at the Center for Aging and Community has set goals and is working to achieve progress on the stated priorities listed below.

- Organize programming that encourages social uses of underutilized spaces.
- Increase alternative transportation options.
- Influence planning for active living policies and programs.
- Make every part of the city accessible for walking/rolling for people of all ages and abilities.

Gathering Place

The Commission on Aging frequently receives requests from older adults in Bloomington for a senior activity center. We are happy to see the Salvation Army has begun twice monthly meetings at their location on Kirkwood and Rogers for educational and recreational programming. Several COA commissioners have been attending the educational programs to gauge the interest of the seniors and to show our interest and support to the Salvation Army for organizing the June focus groups to evaluate needs. One of our Commissioners is the host of a paper craft workshop called Collage Club that meets twice a month at 10:30 after the educational program. This is an enthusiastic group that is looking to grow in numbers. Now the challenge is to create a sense of community. We can do this by offering to introduce others to the availability and promise of a good partnership, offering outreach space for older adult programming in the heart of downtown. We are off to a good start!

Emergency Disaster Preparedness for Older Adults
In 2014, the Commission was assisted by Antonya Wallace, an AmeriCorps member assigned to the City of Bloomington. Ms. Wallace researched the special needs of the older adults, prepared materials and handouts, and conducted nine FEMA trainings. She worked with Green Acres Neighborhood Association and initiated a “5 Step Disaster Plan” as a pilot program for Neighborhoods in Bloomington. She designed a display for the Senior Expo and started a disaster blog called, Be Ready Bloomington. Visit the blog at http://www.bloomingtonvolunteeretwork.org/beready. Upon her departure, Ms. Wallace left a list of next steps for subsequent projects in coming years.

We appreciate very much the City of Bloomington sharing their AmeriCorps Volunteer with us and thank Antonya for all the attention she was able to give to prepare us for the special needs of the disabled and older adults in our community.

Elder Justice
The Commission on Aging dedicated time and resources to celebrate Elder Abuse Awareness Month in June. Articles were published in the Herald Times to alert the community of the problem locally. We showed the film, “An Age for Justice; Confronting Elder Abuse in America” at the Monroe County Public Library and TRIAD volunteers partnered with COA members to arrange 10 talks and film-showings around Bloomington to Senior clubs reaching 160 individuals. We also distributed 500 10” x 14” placemats with information on elder abuse to hometown restaurants during June. In conjunction with Monroe County TRIAD, the Commission on Aging produced an educational flyer about abuse awareness and it was delivered in 27,000 city of Bloomington utility bills.

Two COA commissioners attended a state-wide conference on elder justice in Indianapolis on September 18th, sponsored by the Indiana Prosecuting Attorneys Association entitled, Respect our Elders – Working Together to Stop Abuse. Expert panelists presented information on community resources, adult protective services and prosecution of crimes against the elderly. Afternoon breakout sessions provided specific information on a variety of topics including national elder justice policies, guardianship and case management.

Sharing Information
Commission members participated in bi-weekly tabling at the Bloomington Farmers’ Market throughout the season for the third year. Market-goers asked a lot of questions and got to know several of the commissioners. Out-of-town visitors often would stop by to ask what a Commission on Aging is and from there go on to ask about living in Bloomington as an elder. Many were people looking for retirement relocation and opportunities for their parents.

NEIGHBORHOOD DISASTER PLAN

Are you really prepared?

How prepared we are now, before a disaster, will determine what our lives will be like afterwards.

The City Bloomington Volunteer Network, in partnership with FEMA, has developed a neighborhood disaster plan template. Please join your neighbors in writing a plan for your neighborhood. Fill out the attached survey so that neighborhood leaders can know how to best help your community in the event of a disaster.

Please complete the survey by: ____________________________.

(Date)

Your neighbor, ____________________________, will return to collect it.

(Name)

Information provided will be kept confidential and used solely to develop an emergency plan and to reference in the event of an actual emergency.
NEIGHBOR SURVEY

Are you really prepared? How prepared we are now, before a disaster, will determine what our lives will be like afterwards.

Help us build a Neighborhood Disaster Plan! To complete the plan, we need to know what extra help you might need in a disaster, and what special skills or supplies you have that can help all of us. (All information will be kept confidential by the neighborhood association and is only for neighborhood disaster planning.) Please complete one form per household, business, or organization and return it to your neighborhood contact. This information is voluntary.

PUT THIS SHEET IN AN ENVELOPE AND LEAVE IN YOUR DOOR FOR PICK UP
During a disaster you may only have seconds to make big decisions.

Do you know exactly where your disaster supplies are? Here are some examples of disaster related supplies and materials:

DOCUMENTS
- Identification: Driver’s licenses, birth certificates, passports, social security cards & bank account information, recent photographs of family members
- Insurance, loan documents, wills, trusts, certificates
- A list of family members with contact information (home, cell, work, address) Copy important documents to a flash drive and place in a safe location

MEDICAL
- Medical provider information
- Medications and when you need to take them
- At least a seven-day supply of prescribed medicines and if possible, copies of prescriptions
- If medications require refrigeration or special handling, make special plans (e.g., cold packs, ice cooler, mini refrigerator)

FIRST AID KIT
- Bandages, gauze, wipes, rubber gloves
- Rubbing alcohol and hydrogen peroxide

FOR BABY/CHILDREN
- Formula and bottles
- Diapers
- Medications
- Sanitary supplies
- Familiar toy or book
- Car seat

TOOLS
- Battery, solar powered or hand-crank AM/FM radio
- Flashlight with extra batteries
- Wrench for turning off gas

SUPPLIES
- Cash - at least $100-200 in small bills per person, as possible
- Soap, toilet paper
- Toothbrush/paste
Plastic bags for trash and storing items
Two complete sets of clothing and shoes per person
Blankets or sleeping bags for each person
Extra set of keys
Feminine products

WATER AND FOOD

- Water – 1 gallon per person per day including infants and children (a week’s supply labeled with expiration date)
- Non-perishable food that does not require refrigeration, preparation/cooking, and little or no water
- Extra food (remember special dietary needs)

REMEMBER: a human can survive for 3 weeks without food, but only 3 DAYS without water!!!

DISABILITY OR LIMITED MOBILITY

If you are a person with a disability, have a sensory or cognitive disability, or limited mobility, make sure your emergency kit includes items specific to your needs and have a list of the following:

- Adaptive or supportive equipment and extra batteries
- Instructions on how to operate any special equipment

FOR PETS/SERVICE ANIMALS

- Identification tags
- Extra food and water
- Clean-up supplies
- Medicine
- Transport case (one per animal)
- Leash

TIP: As needed following a disaster, shut off the main valves to your water and gas. Do not shut the gas off unless you smell gas. Shut off the gas by turning the valve so that the “bar” is perpendicular to the gas line. Keep a wrench wired to the gas meter and know the location of water shut off valves.
