

Bugs in Bloom: How Native Insects Are Important to Bloomington

Ideas for your submission

- Write a short story about a bug, a bug's role in the Bloomington environment, or your experience with a bug (fiction or nonfiction)
 - Share a collection of photos you've taken of native bugs throughout the season
 - Create baseball cards for the various decomposers you would find natively in the Bloomington area
 - Sitting observing/drawing/short story about bug in your backyard
 - Choose a specific native species you'd find in Bloomington for your art inspo
 - Draw a bug you've seen or hope to see in Bloomington
 - A descriptive/visual breakdown of bugs you hear/see/touch (taste???)
 - Bug Calendar of native bugs you see each month
 - Create an educational or fictional zine, comic, or mini graphic novel
 - Short video documentary about a native insect you encounter
 - Share a song you've written about bugs
 - Paint a watercolor picture of a native insect
 - Make a paper mâché bug of your own
 - Create an outfit inspired by native insects
 - Write and perform a skit about native insect's role in Bloomington
- Or one of a million other creative ideas!

